

As part of our “For All the Saints” stewardship campaign this year, we’ve asked a number of parishioners under the age of 50 to reflect on their lives and Holy Trinity Parish. The two questions were:

1. What does Holy Trinity Parish mean to you?
2. What ministries of HTP are close to your heart and why?

William Booker

Holy Trinity is intertwined in almost all of my childhood. Some of my earliest memories, like legos in Sunday School, my first years acolyting, and reading on Christmas Eve will stay with me for a long, long time. This parish has been a supporting, loving community in such important parts of my life. Take post-service doughnuts as an example. That was and still is one of my favorite parts of Sunday, and not because of the doughnuts. The people I talked to and the connections I built with my fellow parishioners over a doughnut were so, so special. I always felt so cherished and loved, the way that adults engaged and really listened to what I had to say, especially when I was young. Being a reader (starting at a young age), and the process I went through reading and really learning every text I read gave me a great foundation for bible study and involved worship. Reading helped me build confidence and feel like a valued, important, and contributing factor in every service I read in. It helped me develop strong public speaking skills that are still benefiting me to this day. Thank you Holy Trinity, for growing up with me and always loving me.
